

Roman Shade Styles

**We can actually make any style, just provide a picture. Below are the most popular ones****

Flat Roman Shade  A close-up view of a flat Roman shade in a light beige color, installed in a white window frame. The shade is partially lowered, showing its smooth, flat surface.	Stitch-to-back Roman Shade  A photograph of a room featuring a stitch-to-back Roman shade in a light beige color. The shade is partially lowered, and the room includes a lamp, a vase with dried flowers, and a chair.	Stitch-to-front Roman Shade  A close-up view of a stitch-to-front Roman shade in a light beige color, installed in a white window frame. The shade is partially lowered, showing its horizontal pleats.
Parafold Shade (Also known: Waterfall or Hobbled)  A close-up view of a parafold shade in a dark brown color, installed in a white window frame. The shade is partially lowered, showing its deep, vertical pleats.	Relaxed Roman Shade  A photograph of a relaxed Roman shade with vertical stripes in red, teal, and white, installed in a white window frame. The shade is partially lowered, showing its soft, draped appearance.	Butterfly Shade  A photograph of a butterfly shade in a light beige color, installed in a white window frame. The shade is partially lowered, showing its characteristic butterfly-shaped pleats.
Box Pleated Balloon Shade  A photograph of a box pleated balloon shade in a dark red color, installed in a white window frame. The shade is partially lowered, showing its deep, box-like pleats and a decorative fringe at the bottom.	Shirred Balloon Shade  A photograph of a shirred balloon shade in a dark brown color, installed in a white window frame. The shade is partially lowered, showing its gathered, shirred top and deep, rounded pleats.	Austrian Roman Shade  A photograph of an Austrian Roman shade in a light beige color, installed in a white window frame. The shade is partially lowered, showing its deep, rounded pleats and a decorative fringe at the bottom. The window is located above a bathtub in a bathroom.